

Please join us for our second College of Education Wednesday Exchange Brownbag

Julio Cammarota

Professor, Teaching, Learning &
Sociocultural Studies

From Creative Resilience to Creative Resistance: Applying Arts-Based Participatory Methods to Engage Students in Undergraduate Research at an HSI

Wed, November 8, 2023

1:00 pm -2:30 pm

In-Person: Education, Room 104

To join online, email Christy (cbrodriguez@arizona.edu) for Zoom link

Ashley Domínguez-Lopez

Assistant Professor, Teaching, Learning & Sociocultural Studies

Regina Deil-Amen

Professor, Higher Education & Sociology
Associate Dean of Faculty Affairs

These scholars will explain the Creative Resistance research curriculum they have been developing and implementing with undergraduates at University of Puerto Rico to provide an original and individualized research experience that is integrated, meaning it combines the creativity of the humanities and the critical research skills and techniques of the social sciences with a social justice lens. Julio, Regina, and Ashley will include visual art, poetry, and other demonstrations of creativity generated by students in an effort to center students' lived experiences and culture as an entry point to students' identity and work as researchers.